

Sub Plans--J. Hoefler
Tuesday, September 8, 2015

GENERAL INFO:

1. Students write in planners immediately upon entering classroom. Please project plans below on the document reader.
2. Students do not go to the restroom during class time. If they ask, let them know it is my expectation that they go between classes, but if there is an emergency, please write down their names. The pass is on a clipboard behind my desk.

AGENDA:

1. PLANNER: FINISH YOUR PARAGRAPH IF NEEDED.
2. In the next clean sheet of your reader/writer notebook, draw a huge circle map that takes up the entire page. Title the page: Who Am I? Circle Map
3. Write your name in the center. If you identify by different names, write all of these. For example, I'm Ms. Hoefler, Mama, Sissy, Jen, Blondie.
4. Within the outside circle, brainstorm as many ideas that show others who you are: places, books, food, hobbies, television, music, hopes, dreams, favorites, personality traits, etc.
5. Within the frame, write the experiences, the memorable moments, the people (parents, peers, siblings, teachers, etc.) books, movies, music, world events, travel, etc., that influence who you are and how you act.
--Aim for a circle map with at least 20-30 details.
6. On the next clean page of your r/w notebook, use a detail from your circle map as inspiration and write a short draft paragraph about an experience that has greatly influenced your life. Finish for homework if needed.
